WHO READS NESN??

JOHN HAKE, (PAPH-01), a contributor to the original Scanner master Guide, Philadelphia Police officer, frequent correspondent to RCMA.

SCOTT MATTSON, (NJPP-01), editor of RCMA's CONTACT/INFO WANTED column, longtime fire buff.

HANK ROSE, (NJLV-01), also an RCMA editor and State Police/law enforcement specialist.

DICK STEDMAN (MASF-01), Active writer to RCMA, especially in the field of Space and Shortwave.

MONITORING THE CONSTABLES

The following comes from Dick Stedman, (MASF-01) overheard by him on a recent visit to London:

"Bravo-Delta Four-Zero-Seven, can you possibly manage us another unit to the entry-way of The King's Arms Pub on Kensington High St?" (Dispatcher) "Certainly! What sort of problem are you having?"... "Well, my partner's been knocked down and appears to be having some difficulty.....(sounds of breaking glass and screaming!)..." "Seems he is now o.k... Yes, he'll be coming around in a bit..... Anyway..Are you reading me clearly??".....

Yes, Yes..quite clearly...You do have a bit of odd noise in the background, though, don't you?" "Yes, Sorry!!... (more glass breaking, screaming) ...We seem to have a crowd of about one hundred persons fighting with bottles and clubs, and we are having a bit of trouble trying to stop them."...

(Dispatcher) .."Very well....Attention units in the Bravo-Dealta section...Constables requiring assistance with a small disturbance, King's Arms Pub...Please proceed directly.".....

...Bravo-Delta 407... (more screams, sirens)..."Thanks very much...We shall try to keep you informed."... (About 30 seconds later)=.... "Sufficient cars now on scene, thanks again for your assistance."

(Dispatcher) .."Happy to have helped, Bravo-Delta 407."

As Dick says, very formal, these British!! No one gets excited!..Imagine the above happening in New York, asks Dick!! So Right!!
